Characterystics:

POWDER & BULK is the technical journal for bulk materials handling in Polish language and provides a cross-media platform for users, system & component suppliers and science. Problem-solving handling industries: building materials, energy, agriculture, chemicals and plastics.

POWDER & BULK informs about the various processing steps and procedures for the extraction development, process engineering, product and material development, product news, event and date references – always high quality and up to date. Special attention is paid to the description of processes of rationalization, process control, automation, measurement technology, quality assurance, operational safety and environmental protection. In addition it is reported about new products, events, fairs and trade events.

READERS PROFILE:

The main group of our readers are engineers and managers responsible for technological processes, logistics, transportation, R&D and investments in bulk and solid materials industry.
